I would recommend the book to anyone interested in the coal, or cotton industry, as well as the quality of life during that period in Alabama history.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. The pictures were informative. I would recommend it, if you have any ancestors from Walker County.

Walker County is a unique place inhabited by a unique people. Characters including George "Goober" Lindsey, Tallulah Bankhead, Sybil Gibson, and Eric "Butterbean" Esch, and communities including Cordova, Carbon Hill, and Day's Gap and Horse Creek-or as we know them today, Oakman and Dora-have all contributed to the county's rich history. In this volume of vintage postcard images, readers will learn how the town of Jasper avoided extinction, visit the old Walker County Courthouse that burned six times, and discover which town in Walker County began as Bald Eagle.

About the Author Author and retired Walker County educator Pat Morrison has compiled an engaging collection of postcards and supplemented them with historic photographs to tell the story of this sometimes progressive, sometimes chaotic, but always fascinating place.
